Supervisors plan joint meetings on nets, landfill

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has decided to meet with two other political entities and related organizations before making any more decisions regarding gill nets or landfills.

After hearing Friday from two commercial fishermen who use gill nets and from a Waveland alderman who is opposed to the nets, the board approved a motion to meet with the Bay St. Louis City Council, the Waveland Board of Aldermen and a Bureau of Marine Resources representative, possibly a biologist.

The board also agreed to meet with the cities and several waste disposal firms, private landfill owners and other related organizations regarding problems with what to do about garbage disposals once the present county landfill is full.

Dates for the two meetings have not been set. Cuevas will coordinate the gill net meeting and David Taylor of Gulf Regional Planning Commission, who has been assisting the county with its efforts to find a new landfill site, will coordinate the other meeting.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner suggested the first of the two meetings as a method of designing a gill net policy that will be consistent along the entire Hancock County coastline.

Board President and Beat Two Supervisor Ronald Cuevas said he wants the meeting to be "objective," meaning that no public input will be accepted at that time.

"I wouldn't recommend a public hearing at that time but we'll probably recommend one later, after we have taken an objective look at it," Cuevas said.

The fishermen who appeared at the meeting included Robert Metz and John Luksa, who recently appeared before the Waveland Board of Aldermen to fight a proposal by a group of recreational fishermen who wanted to ban the nets within 1,200 feet of the shoreline.

Waveland passed the matter to the county after Board Attorney Lucien Gex said the city's boundaries extend only to the water's edge and that Waveland has no more rights to regulate matters on the water than the average beachfront property owner, whose only rights are to build piers or oyster reefs up to 750 feet from the shoreline.

Metz and Luksa presented the board with a petition including more than 20 pages of signatures asking that the present ordinances remain in effect.

Those ordinances, with the exception of one that bans the nets in Bay St. Louis for part of the year, are state regulations banning fishing within specific distances from piers and other obstructions. The distances vary according to species, such as 300 feet for mullet and 1,200 for redfish or speckled trout.

"We only have about 12 miles of shoreline in the state of Mississippi to fish," Metz explained to the board.

In addition, the Mississippi Saltwater Fisherman's Coalition is advocating a total closed season of 30 to 60 days during peak breeding times for some species, with the dates to be set each year by Bureau of Marine Resources biologists.

During a total closed season, neither commercial nor sport fishermen may fish for the species affected.

The fishermen told the board that some of the rod and reel fishermen feel that commercial fishermen are depleting species like speckled trout, but bureau biologists have said it makes no difference whether fish are killed with a hook-and-line or with a net.

At that point, Cuevas pointed out that while the petition will be placed on the minutes of the board, the supervisors have never been officially asked to do anything about the gill net controversy.

Waveland Ward Four Alderman Stella Frilot, who has been in office for about three weeks, said she is "absolutely against gill nets."

She said she polled 45 homes in Ward Four about gill nets. "They had to explain it to me. I just started and didn't even know what a gill net was," she explained.

She said 42 of the families she polled are against gill nets, with three who did not care. Only three of the residents

Holiday events and closings listed

BY D. C. Harvill

In the world of natural occurrences, the first day of summer is nearly a month away, when the sun crosses the Tropic of Cancer on June 21. But in this world, where holidays are scheduled for business convenience, Memorial Day could be considered the official first day of summer.

The days are longer and the nights shorter, while they both grow hotter, the kids are out of school, the beaches are crowded, and you have to wait in line to launch your boat—it must be Memorial Day Weekend!

And if it is Memorial Day Weekend you'll have to make some difficult decisions:

"Do I go to a Seafood Festival, the Blessing of the Fleet, a Memorial Day Ceremony or just relax on the beach?"

Why not do them all?

—The St. Clare's Seafood

Festival continues today, in Waveland, as does St. Paul's Seafood Festival in Pass Christian.

—The Pass Christian Blessing of the Fleet, being held this year in conjunction with St. Paul's Seafood Festival will be held today at 1 p.m. in the Pass Christian Small Craft Harbor.

Boats, decorated for the occasion, will parade through the harbor to be blessed by Monsignor Ronald Herzog of St. Paul's Catholic Church and the Reverend and David Johnson of Trinity Episcopal Church. Free seafood will be distributed and music will be provided by the Shades.

The awards for the best decorations will be presented at 5 p.m. at War Memorial Park. The Shades will play until 8 p.m.

—American Legion Post No. 77 in Waveland will hold a ceremony Monday at 11 a.m. at the Legion Hall on Coleman Avenue.

Retired Army officer and professor of U.S. military history, H. P. Tomlinson will be the guest speaker. A wreath will be placed on the monument at the hall, and refreshments will be served.

—Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis will place a wreath on the grave of Clement R. Bon-temp in St. Mary's Cemetery at 10 a.m., followed by refreshments at the Legion Hall on Green Meadow Road.

There will be a few things you cannot do, however; the following will be closed on Memorial Day: Bay St. Louis and Waveland City Halls, Hancock County Courthouse, and all local banks.

There will be no change in the garbage pickup schedules for both Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The festival is held on the church and school grounds on Beach Boulevard, Waveland. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

BAY ACCIDENT—A Mississippi Power Company utility pole and transformer sits on a lowboy on the lawn of Mrs. John McDonald, 504 N. Beach, Bay St. Louis. A water and a gas line under the lawn welded together and were broken from dangling power lines, Bay Police Sgt. Chuck James said. The rig was owned by Dan Ray Construction Company of Long Beach and driven by Timothy McGaffrey. James said the driver was on the way to Alcan Cable Company to pick up a piece of equipment when the accident occurred. Mechanical failure was the cause of the accident, the officer stated, as the driver told him the vehicle turned into the utility pole as he hit his brakes while making the gradual turn on Beach Boulevard. Joseph Gex II was working in Mrs. McDonald's yard and witnessed the truck and lowboy coming into the yard, heard an explosion and hit the ground. Gex said it was followed by a second one as the transformer landed on the lowboy. Mrs. McDonald reported she was on the telephone long distance talking to a friend when she heard the noise and everything went dark in her home. Two vacationers at 410 N. Beach, Winnie Kainer and Rosie Hails of Natchez were on their front porch drinking coffee two doors from the accident, watched as the truck ran onto the lawn, sort of in slow motion, they said. Electricity was out for several hours in the neighborhood. Those responding to the accident included officers from Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the Hancock County sheriff's office, Bay firefighters, Bay utility workers and Mississippi Power crewmen. TRESPASSING ON THE UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUE COUSTEAU, Wayne Malbrough Jr. and his brother Brett explore the waters along Wavelands beach. The children's parents Wayne and Linda Malbrough of Pearl River, Louisiana, said they come to Waveland's beach almost every weekend in the summer because it is "a good place to take the children, they really like it. And it is close to home." (Echo staff photo by D. C. Harvill) polled lived on beachfront property.

She said the aldermen, with the exception of Ward Three, where a vacant post had not yet been filled, were ready to vote to ban the nets when Gex said Waveland had no jurisdiction over the matter.

Luksa later said the nets people had told her about were purse seines, not gill nets, explaining that gill nets use a large enough mesh to allow smaller fish to slip through and escape.

"If gill netting is fine, why close it during the spawning season? Obviously, the fish can't spawn because they can't get through the gill nets to the sand to spawn," Frlot said.

Metz, citing a poor image from the news media as the source of many of the commercial fishermen's problems, contended that more than 60 percent of the sport fishermen are violating laws.

In addition, they sell fish to markets, restaurants and other businesses without first obtaining commercial licenses.

He said a three-county survey of justice court decisions showed that commercial fishermen are checked frequently, but sport fishermen who break laws are seldom prosecuted.

The second meeting on the landfill matter was suggested by Cuevas.

Taylor opened his remarks to the board Friday by saying, "I have had news on the landfill."

The board had been trying to contract, through the Mississippi Bureau of Geology, with someone to do test borings to determine if a proposed additional landfill site in Standard can meet pollution control and other state regulations.

He said new regulations indicate that doing the drilling and evaluation will cost anywhere from $30,000 to $100,000.

"I feel like the state is trying to discourage counties from getting in the landfill business," Taylor commented.

County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson pointed out that it has been more than 10 years since the county had to obtain a landfill permit.

The costs of using a private waste dump could be prohibitive.

Cuevas suggested inviting waste management and hauling firms to the meeting with the two cities because the present landfill is filling up and will not last much longer.

The board has pursued permission from John C. Stennis Space Center, formerly National Space Technology Laboratories, for use of the entire 21-acre

The permission is needed because the site is in the space center's buffer zone.

The board's next regular meeting is set for 9 a.m. June 6 in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Clinton, Natchez and visited on 'Mississippi Roads'

"Mississippi Roads" takes viewers bicycling and Clinton, dancing in Natchez and riding in Picayune in an encore broadcast Tuesday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

Bicycling is becoming very popular in Mississippi. "Mississippi Roads" takes a look at two events: the annual "Bike Across Mississippi" and a BMX competition in Clinton.

"Bike Across Mississippi" is sponsored by the LeFleur's Bluff Bicycle Club of Jackson. Viewers travel with the riders along U.S. 80 from the Alabama state line to the Mississippi River. LeFleur's Bluff Bicycle Club members Conrad Smith and Russell Tillman of Jackson, and Sarah Brooks of Flora, a member of the U.S. Cycling Federation, tell about the benefits of and the requirements for cross-country cycling.

"Roads" then makes a stop at Clinton, where viewers watch competitors from ages 5 to 35, like Ronny Chaney of Jackson, participate in a BMX race. Dr. Len Edwards of the Clinton Optimist Club, sponsor of the race, serves as the BMX track announcer and helps explain

BMX racing to viewers.

The Natchez Indians lived in southwest Mississippi. "Roads" takes viewers to the site of what once was the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians for the annual festival celebrating the culture of this extinct tribe. HOME PROJECTS

Home projects can be fun and everyone can enjoy them, especially after watching "Make Yourself at Home."

Each half-hour program, which premieres at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, May 29, on Mississippi ETV, provides ideas and practical assistance in three primary areas of interest—food and entertaining, gardening and home improvements.

Hosted by Gordon Jump, perhaps best known as Arthur Carlson on the sitcom "WKRP in Cincinnati," "Make Yourself at Home" features people throughout the country working on projects for their homes—not simply demonstrations by "experts."

Whether it's building a brick patio, cooking pasta or bonsai gardening, the series emphasizes the satisfaction and fun that can result from working together.

Memorial Day will be celebrated across the nation on Monday.

American Legion Memorial Day services are scheduled in both Bay St. Louis and Waveland by legionnaires and auxiliary members.

A memorial service will be held at the gravesite of Clement R. Bontemps in St. Mary's Cemetery, Nacaise Avenue, by Bay St. Louis American Legion Post No. 139.

This will be followed by a memorial service at the memorial at the post's home on Green Meadow Road for Hancock County natives killed in World War I, World War II, the Korean Conflict and Vietnam.

Waveland's American Legion Post 77 will hold a memorial service at the post home on Coleman Avenue at 11 a.m.

Memorial Day is a time for all of us to remember those departed veterans who gave their lives for our freedom.

It is hoped there will be a lot of participation in Memorial Day services in Hancock County.

We have many things still happening for the long weekend in Hancock County.

St. Clare's Seafood Festival appears to be off to a good start and everyone seems to be having a good time and getting a chance to eat some good seafood.

We really enjoyed ours and will probably visit the festival again this afternoon.

The festival is held on the church's grounds, Beach Boulevard, Waveland.

I had an opportunity on Saturday of visiting the Gulf Coast Air Show & Fly-In sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association, Chapter 479, at Stennis International Airport, Highway 603, north of Interstate 10.

The airplanes were very interesting and we saw a lot of folks we knew taking advantage of the beautiful weather and enjoying a special outing.

It is not every day one can visit aircraft from years gone by, as well as planes of the future.

I was very much surprised at the number of planes at the Air Show, not to mention the many different types of planes.

Visitors seemed to really be enjoying the tour of the Mississippi Air National Guard's C-141 cargo plane on display.

The large aircraft will also be displayed today at the Air Show.

We know a lot of folks have worked very hard getting everything together for the Air Show and will continue to work today to make it a big success.

We would like to congratulate everyone who has helped bring such an important event to Hancock County.

We know many folks will be using our highways and roadways over this long weekend and hope everyone will drive with extreme care.

Please, do not drink and drive.

Weekly Editorial From

There is good news in Mississippi.

Scholastic achievement, as reflected in the state's new standardized examination for high school juniors, is improving.

The Education Reform Act of 1982 requires satisfactory completion of a literacy test at the 11th grade level for all high school students prior to receipt of a diploma.

A sample test was tried a year ago; this year, the test was for real—no pass, no diploma.

The results are in—test scores have improved.

Chances are, the scores will be even better next year.

This is the good news: all the work in restructuring the state board of education, the national search for an appointed state superintendent of education, the education reform act, and the dedicated efforts of the state's professional teachers and educational leaders is paying dividends.

We can improve Mississippi. All it takes is concern, commitment and courage.

Ask Ochsner

Q. My husband woke up in the middle of the night with a terrible pain in his big toe. When he examined it, the toe was red, swollen and very tender. He did not remember bumping his foot at all that evening and had no pain before he went to bed. The doctor we saw said that arthritis probably caused this pain in his toe. Can this be true? Mrs. T.H. Erath, La.

A. More than likely, your doctor is correct. From your description, it sounds like your husband had an attack of gout, a form of arthritis.

Dr. Leonard Serebro, a rheumatologist at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans, says gout is one of the most treatable kinds of arthritis and one of the easiest types to control. But, if left untreated, it can impair kidney function and cause kidney stones. It occurs almost exclusively in men. When women reach menopause, the incidence of gout is fairly equal for both sexes.

Gout is caused by a buildup of uric crystals in the joints. This produces a great deal of pain, redness and swelling. It can affect any joint, but the typical first gout attack occurs in the big toe at night. Gout can also mimic an infection because often, along with the pain and swelling, the person may also have a fever.

Gout has long been called the 'rich man's disease' as it was believed that eating an abundance of rich foods caused the condition. This is not so, Dr. Serebro says. People who develop gout either have kidneys which cannot excrete the normal quantity of uric acid the body makes, or the body is making uric acid in excess to what is consumed with certain foods.

However, many people who have a high uric acid content in the body never develop gout. Those who do suffer from gout should avoid excessive amounts of alcohol and foods which are high in uric acid since they can aggravate the problem.

A definite diagnosis of gout can be made if uric crystals are present in the joint. If crystals are not present, swelling or other types of discomforts may be due to another type of arthritis. It is important for anyone suffering from gout, or what may appear to be gout, to be examined by a physician.

SEE MISSISSIPPI FIRST

It's getting to be that time of year when we start thinking about family vacations. This year before you go off to far, I would urge you to think about seeing Mississippi first.

There are a lot of interesting and beautiful places to visit in Mississippi. From the beaches of the Gulf Coast, to the historical homes of Holly Springs, Iuka and Columbus, there are relaxing sights and sounds everywhere you turn.

If you have just got a couple of days, Vicksburg is hard to beat with the old courthouse, battleground and restored antebellum homes. But Natchez may be one of our best kept secrets. The view from the bluffs will take your breath away and the activities "under-the-hill" are still as exciting as ever. I would like to see us create a national park at the end of the Natchez Trace, and include the Fort Rosalie site and Melrose.

Then there are the local events. The list is endless. The Catfish Festival in the Delta, the Gum Tree Festival in Tupelo, Heritage Day in Iuka, the Tobacco Spitting Contest, Pearl Day, the Flagship Festival in Jackson County, the Gumbo Festival in the Kilm, the Blessing of the Fleets all across the Mississippi Gulf Coast and of course the granddaddy of them all; the Neshoba County Fair. These events are all great fun for the people who attend them and beneficial for the communities involved.

Tourism is important to Mississippi. It means jobs and it means money for our State. That's why we need to promote it more. And that's why I think we should all plan to see Mississippi first!

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

INF TREATY

By RONALD REAGAN

The full United States Senate is expected to begin floor debate in May on the Treaty on Intermediate-range Nuclear Forces, known as the INF Treaty. Soviet General Secretary Gorbachev and I signed this Treaty at our Summit meeting in Washington last December.

The Treaty represents a landmark accomplishment—an historic accomplishment—because, once implemented, it will bring about the elimination of an entire class of American and Soviet nuclear missiles.

Before our nation can commit itself to a treaty, our Constitution provides that the Senate must give its advice and consent. Therefore, last January I formally submitted the INF Treaty to the Senate for its consideration. The duty of the Senate in giving its advice and consent to treaties is vital to maintaining our separation of powers; and the role of the Senate, in considering the INF Treaty, is essential.

Senior officials of the Administration have been working closely with the Senate. Officials from our State and Defense Departments, our Intelligence community and our Arms Control Agency have provided many hours of testimony before three separate Senate committees, painstakingly responding to the detailed questions posed to them by Senators on these committees.

In addition, Senators have addressed to the Administration numerous letters about the Treaty—and more than 1,200 written questions. We have provided full written responses. We have worked very hard to meet any Senate concerns over the Treaty. And as I have assured the Senate, we will continue to do so.

Now that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has approved the INF Treaty, the full Senate will be called on to discharge its constitutional responsibility to provide its advice and consent to the INF Treaty. As this debate is about to begin in the historic Senate chamber, permit me to take a moment to review with you the Treaty's background.

The INF Treaty is the result of years of hard work by American officials—officials who, in representing you in our negotiations with the Soviet Union, held fast to the key security objectives that had been set out by American officials—officials who, in representing you in our negotiations with the Soviet Union, held fast to the key security objectives that had been set out by the United States and our NATO Allies. At one point the Soviet Union actually walked away from the table—and stayed away from the talks for almost a year and a half.

When in early 1985 the Soviets finally returned, we repeated our call for the elimination of this entire class of U.S. and Soviet missiles—my "zero option" proposal, first put forward all the way back in 1981. And in 1987, it was the Soviet Union that finally—after two-and-a-half more years of negotiating—came around to the American position.

To sum up: In the INF negotiations, we held fast to what we wanted. And we got it. This is what comes of negotiating from strength. It is the same successful formula—dealing from strength—that we are applying to our other negotiations with the Soviet Union as well. And I assure you: If we do not get what we want in these other areas—in other words, if we do not get good treaties—there will be no treaties.

It is my hope that, in recognition of the important role they play in this process, the 100 Members of the United States Senate will now proceed expeditiously in their debate on the INF Treaty. It is, after all, a solid Treaty, carefully negotiated; a Treaty that stands on its own substantive merits; a Treaty that will enhance the security of our own country and that of our European and Asian Allies now threatened by the very Soviet missiles that will be removed once the Treaty is implemented.

Senate approval of the Treaty will enable us to get on with the job of eliminating these nuclear missiles. It will also allow us to put into action the elaborate verification regime that we achieved in the INF Treaty. The most stringent in arms control history, it will enable us to verify effectively that the Soviets are indeed complying with all of the Treaty's provisions.

I know that you, the American people, strongly support this INF Treaty and on Capitol Hill, the House of Representatives has already given the Treaty its endorsement—by an overwhelming vote of 393 to 7.

Now that the Treaty is moving to floor debate in the Senate, let the debate be vigorous and full. And let it proceed without delay. For I am confident that the final vote will indeed give advice and consent to this historic Treaty, the historic step toward a safer peace.

Governor's Weekly Column

Gov. Ray Mabus

There is an astounding statistic I would like to share with you this week:

The world's largest industry by the year 2000 will not be the auto or steel industries, or the food or health services industries, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

No, at the turn of the century the world's largest industry will be tourism.

There is a strong message there for Mississippi—you cannot overemphasize the importance of tourism in our state; and, you cannot let it fall through the cracks.

Tourism earned some special recognition earlier this month with the celebration of National Tourism Week. That acknowledgment is much deserved when you consider that total travel-related expenditures in Mississippi in 1986 totaled $1.4 billion, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D.C.

Moreover, there was $269 million in travel-related payroll; 33,866 travel-generated jobs; and $97.5 million in travel-generated state and local tax revenues.

I want Mississippi to have at least its fair share of the tourism industry. I intend to see that it is treated as just that—an industry—by the Department of Economic Development, which recently was put under the control of the Governor's office.

Beyond that, we all need to be the best salesmen we can for Mississippi. For my part, wherever I go I will spread the word about Mississippi's beauty, its abundant natural resources, its outstanding cultural offerings and its friendly people.

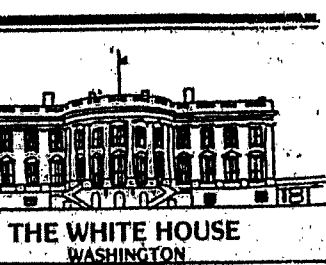

While these assets have long been present in Mississippi, there are two new developments that could give a boost to the tourism industry in Mississippi.

First, Mississippi must make every effort to secure a new national park—the Natchez Trace National Park. This proposed, 1,000-acre park at a cost of $20-25 million, would have an enormous impact on the economy of Natchez and the entire state.

Secondly, two historic agreements were signed by myself and Govs. Bill Clinton of Arkansas and Buddy Roemer of Louisiana earlier this month. On agreement committed the states to work together in economic development area including tourism.

When people are looking to take a vacation, when people are looking at conventions or place to go, we've got to get their thinking in terms of the Mississippi River Region.

I am confident that if we understand the potential of tourism and plan for the future Mississippi can garner more than its fair share of tourism as we head into the 21st Century.

Shows, 41, also pledged to maintain a constant accountability to taxpayers for highway dollars. "More and more taxpayers want and deserve to know how every penny is spent. I intend to make sure they know where their highway dollars are going. I want all of the money to go onto highways."

The third-term state Senator also said he will hold regular town meetings in each county in the district. "Only with your direct input can I know the needs of every county in the district. This is a very large district with a major portion of the state's population. I need to know your economic development and safety requirements in order to serve the entire district in a fair way."

In addition, Shows said he looks forward to working with the employees of the Highway Department. "During my years in the State Senate, I have seen the high level of competence among the employees in the Highway Department. They are

NATION'S RITES AT ARLINGTON TOMB

MEMORIAL

The nation's observance of Memorial Day has its focal point at Arlington National Cemetery, just across the Potomac River from Washington, D.C. Each year the President is invited to lay a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and to deliver an address to those gathered there to commemorate the day.

This year, because of his trip to the summit conference in Moscow, President Reagan will be unable to attend, the Presidential wreath to Veterans Affairs Administrator Thomas Turnage.

From the moment the memorial service begins until its conclusion with the playing of "Taps" by an Army bugler there is a solemn silence observed by those in attendance.

The ceremony begins with the arrival of spit-and-polish contingents of servicemen and women representing each branch of the armed forces. A joint-service honor guard sharply posts the national colors and the banner of each service.

The President or his representative at this time places a wreath at the Tomb and pauses while an Army bugler plays "Taps."

All those in attendance move to the amphitheatre immediately behind the Tomb where a military band plays a selection of music in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion after which the President or his representative addresses the gathering.

At the conclusion of the ceremony in the amphitheatre the focus again returns to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier where additional wreaths are placed by The American Legion and other organizations dedicated to the preservation and perpetuation of the traditional observance of Memorial Day. National Vice Commander Leon Reed will place the wreath for the Legion.

Robert Sutphin, president of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Day Committee, which organizes the ceremony each year, reports that more than 30 wreaths are placed at the Tomb on Memorial Day.

The Origins of Memorial Day

In 1866, memorial associations were formed in Columbus, Georgia, and Columbus, Mississippi, for the purpose of caring for the graves of both Union and Confederate war dead.

Northern cities also paid respect through special observances. The village of Waterloo, New York, honored its war dead on May 5, 1866, by closing its businesses for the day, flying the flag at half-mast, and decorating the graves of fallen soldiers. In 1967, President Lyndon Johnson issued a proclamation - officially recognizing Waterloo as "the birthplace of Memorial Day."

On April 29, 1866, the citizens of Carbondale, Illinois, conducted an all-day observance, including a parade, a barbecue, speeches and the decorating of the graves of some 20 Union soldiers. The principal speaker on this occasion was General John A. Logan.

Undoubtedly drawing from his experiences in Carbondale, Gen. Logan, the first Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued, on May 5, 1868, the general order providing for the nationwide observance of Decoration Day on May 30. This date was chosen in order that, all over the country, there might be flowers in bloom that could be used in decorating the graves.

May 30 remained the official date of the occasion until 1971, when Public Law 90-363 went into effect. It called for uniform annual observances of certain legal public holidays, including Memorial Day. It has since been observed nationally on the last Monday in May.

Women Vet Memorial

And lest we forget, Memorial Day also is a time to remember the American women who have served this nation in wartime.

Today, through the Vietnam Women's Memorial Project, the women of that war are seeking a rightful place in this nation's memory for all women veterans of all wars.

The project gained the support of The American Legion's National Executive Committee at its 1985 fall meeting. Although the proposal to erect the first statue in the nation's capital that honored women war veterans was rejected by the Fine Arts Commission last fall, legislation supporting the project has been introduced in both houses of Congress.

"Ours was a nurturing and healing role, and the goal is to make veterans aware of our service."

She's met part of her goal: Nearly 3 million veterans of The American Legion are aware.

'To Heal A Nation'

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial, a gleaming black granite wall occupying less than 500 feet on the mall in our nation's capital, has become America's most visited memorial since its dedication on Veterans Day 1982.

It also has become a national symbol of reconciliation, a place of healing for the wounds of a divisive war, standing in mute testimony to the human cost of war.

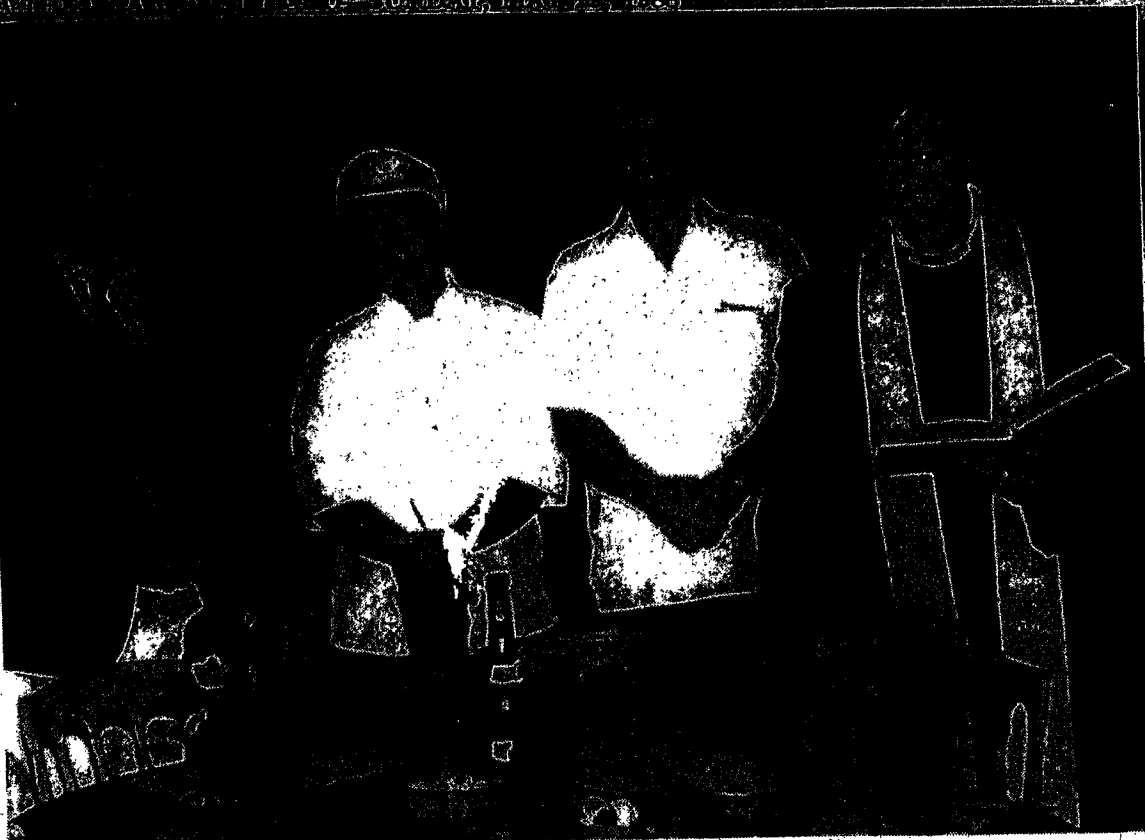

Listing the names of more than 58,000 Americans who gave their lives during the Vietnam War — in the order they died — the memorial became reality because of the determination of one veteran, who marshalled the support of millions more.

On Sunday, May 29, at 9 p.m. (EDT), the NBC television network will present a dramatization of the struggle to create the memorial, entitled "To Heal A Nation." The drama is based on the book of the same name by Jan Scruggs, founder of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund. The NBC program sets the stage for the development of the memorial, and strongly emphasizes the feeling that the memorial was built as a monument to those who died and those who returned, not as a monument to a war.

The two-hour NBC television presentation of "To Heal A Nation" marks the first broadcast in many years by a major American network saluting the role of veterans at Memorial Day. It is a touching, well-produced effort chronicling their struggle to create a memorial that would help Americans everywhere feel the healing power of memory begin its work.

Scruggs is credited with igniting the spark that led the nation's veterans to AIR SHOW—The Gulf Coast Air Show sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association, Chapter 479 at Stennis International Airport, Highway 603, continues today. Saturday, a steady flow of visitors toured a Mississippi Air National Guard C-141 cargo plane. The plane is the largest of nine military aircraft at the Air Show along with experimental planes, antique planes, antique autos and helicopters. Aerobatic shows are included and admission is a donation of $3 for adults and $1 for children. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Gulf Oaks expands treatment to adolescents

Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic, providing care for adults experiencing chemical dependency or emotional problems, has increased its services to include treatment of adolescents.

The adolescent program is geared to treat teenagers between the ages of 12 and 18 who are experiencing behavioral and emotional difficulties including secondary treatment of chemical dependency.

The services are supervised by Gulf Oaks Medical Director Robert G. Slack, MD, a board certified adult and child psychiatrist.

Nursing services are provided and specialists are available for consultation and medical emergencies.

A multidisciplinary treatment team—consisting of physicians, counselors, therapists, social workers, pastoral counselors, adjunctive therapists and nurses—utilize a wholistic model which addresses the adolescents' biological, psychological, spiritual and social needs.

"This leads to a comprehensive and individualized treatment plan to assist the adolescent in improving emotional and physical functioning. On going treatment team meetings with the adolescent's participation allow for continuous evaluation of the individual's progress," Slack stated.

"Since many younger patients coming to Gulf Oaks have had either academic or behavioral difficulties in school, the education program is designed as an integral part of the overall therapeutic program," he added.

"Close communication with the adolescent's home school will be maintained by our educator to ensure that the patient/student keeps up with regular school assignments and to facilitate return to the school upon discharge," the doctor noted.

A certified teacher provides specialized instruction for adolescent patients in small classes. The program is individualized, providing basic requirements for credit and graduation.

The curriculum promotes development of academic skills as well as self-esteem, problem solving, judgment, and creative expression.

An evaluation process is also included and offers screening and an in-depth assessment of educational interests, aptitude, achievement, and potential, slack continued.

Gulf Oaks Hospital and Clinic is located at 180 DeBuys Road in Biloxi, adjacent to Gulf Coast Community Hospital and is accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Waveland firefighter, policeman arrested

A policeman and a fireman, both from Waveland, have been arrested by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department on charges of arson.

Waveland fireman William Field III, 26, of 401 St. Jude St., Waveland, and Michael E. Prendergast, 25, of 1609 St. Joseph St., Waveland were arrested Wednesday afternoon on arson charges in the burning of a van belonging to Field.

Prendergast was selected last week as Waveland's "Officer of the Year" by the Hancock County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving for his efforts in enforcing drunk driving laws.

Waveland Fire Chief David Garcia expressed shock that Field was implicated in the incident.

A man driving home from work at Stennis Space Center (NSTL), at 12:20 Wednesday morning, told authorities he saw an explosion in a wooded area along Highway 603, then a car speeding away, Peterson said.

The man, suspecting wrong doing, pursued the automobile as it sped toward Waveland, at speeds in excess of 100 mph, according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Catching up with the car near the traffic light at Waveland Avenue and Highway 90, the man was able to get the tag number and reported the incident to authorities.

When sheriff's deputies arrived at the scene, near the intersection of Highways 607 and 604, they found a badly-burned 1986 Ford van.

Field had reported his van stolen at 6 a.m. Wednesday; he called back later to report that his car's license plate had also been stolen, according to Peterson.

When deputies traced the tag numbers from the automobile and the van they discovered both were registered to William Field.

Deputies who went to Field's residence shortly after the fire found the hood was still warm.

During questioning, after his arrest, Field said he had been having financial problems and couldn't meet payments on the van, so he and Prendergast hatched a plan to burn it.

Field also stated that the van had been carried in Prendergast's patrol car.

The carpeted patrol car was cut out Thursday, and sent to the Mississippi Crime Laboratory for analysis.

"There was a definite odor,"

Peterson said.

Another witness was found who, according to Peterson, said he had seen Field and Prendergast together shortly after the fire, that they smelled strongly of diesel, and that Prendergast had taken off his shirt and left it at the witness's house because of the odor.

Field and Prendergast both were released on $5000 bond, and have been suspended from their positions pending the outcome of the charges against them.

Sheriff's investigator Delbert Seay and Hancock County Sheriff Marshall Jay Marsh are in charge of the investigation, with full cooperation from Waveland's fire and police departments.

HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME
Weekly Tip: Look toward the future, and refuse to dwell on the past.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) A series of spectacular events is coming your way. Many situations are likely to be drastically altered, so prepare yourself. Sever unproductive ties.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) You appear to be in a quandary over career issues. An interesting Cancer personality may help you with important decisions. Review domestic affairs.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Calm yourself where that sensitive issue is concerned. Areas of your life need to be viewed with a greater objectivity.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) The stress you've been feeling should be fading away. You are advised to modify your demands on others. Look for changes in those with authority.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) Postpone a major move until you are sure you would be better off. Don't play the fool so willingly when you feel that others are just as responsible.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Separate yourself from disagreeable associates. But don't turn the other way concerning developments relating to important business affairs.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Look for some promising hope in the form of an inquisitive Aries. You must continue to exercise tact and patience.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You are likely to be changeable, outspoken and overdramatic now. The crosses you bear are several in number, but this frustrating cycle will end soon.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Changes abound as we move into April, and this should prove to be a challenging month professionally and personally.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) That urge to lay low is melting away with the spring thaw. Go get 'em, tiger, and have yourself a ball. Meanwhile, don't overlook finances now.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Chaos is the operative word these days, but if you can keep your head above water now, the rest will be smooth sailing. Be sympathetic towards family.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Take the final plunge concerning that emotionally draining project, and reap the harvest! Don't be surprised by new romantic involvements.

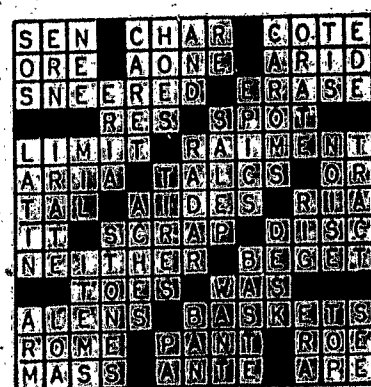

If you were born this week, a strong sense of family loyalty has led, and will continue to lead, your life. But you must not live for them, or allow them to live for you, but try to find a happy balance. Family is important, but there is more to life. Independence, on a balanced level, can be a wonderful thing; and it can be shared.

FRUGAL GOURMET

To cleric-turned-chef Jeff Smith, "frugal" definitely doesn't mean "cheap." According to this lively television cook, however, "gourmet" does not mean "expensive" either.

The REGIONAL WOMEN'S CENTER at SIDELL MEMORIAL HOSPITAL presents a series of lectures and discussion groups for women.

EVERYTHING WOMEN ALWAYS WANTED TO KNOW ABOUT SEXUALITY BUT WERE AFRAID TO ASK.

Wednesday, June 8, 7:30 PM

Women ask important questions when husbands or lovers withdraw intimacy because of fears and misconceptions about their sexual performance. Women hold the key to sexual health in the modern loving relationship and women are the ones to ask key questions that, when answered, lead to a compassionate understanding of the problem. This educational program is designed to enhance relationship improvement. The Sexual Medicine Institute of Southeast Louisiana will answer major questions about male sexual performance. STEPHEN SOUTH-ERN, Ed.D., Sex and Marital Therapy Consultant, will discuss the complex responses of male sexuality. ESTEBAN ROMANO, M.D., and MAHMOUD DAF-TARY, M.D., Urologists, will provide information on the anatomy and physiology of males and will discuss medical advances in sexual medicine. (Men welcome, also.)

MEDICATIONS AND PREGNANCY

Thursday, June 9, 12:00 Noon

An informal discussion of the effects of prescription and non-prescription drugs as well as alcohol and tobacco on fetus and mom during pregnancy. The talk will cover from conception through pregnancy and post-partum. Bruce Clemens, RPH, Director of SMH Pharmacy Services will lead the discussion.

BREAST SELF-EXAM

Monday, June 13, Noon & 7:00 PM

Breast Cancer will take one in ten American Women during their lifetime. Breast Self-Exam is the key to early detection. FREE classes in BSE are taught by trained nurses. The Breast Diagnostic Center at SMH offers routine baseline mammograms for $59.00 (including Radiologist's Professional Fee). THIS EDUCATION IS A MUST FOR WOMEN AND ADOLESCENT GIRLS.
